What this pack is made of

This pack stands on three sheets the customer sent as PDF files. The headed sheet is under this page. A plain continuation sheet is under every page the schedule runs to. The page of standing conditions at the back is the third sheet, taken in whole and counted like the rest.

None of the three is redrawn. The team reads each file, brings its page in as a drawing, and stamps it under the text — so a letterhead comes out of the printer as its owner made it, and the conditions on the last page are the ones on file, to the letter.

What is in it

Page 1	This page, on the headed sheet.
Pages 2 to 3	The delivery schedule, 46 rows, on the continuation sheet.
Page 4	The conditions of supply, as the customer supplied them.

Signed

Each party signs one copy. The schedule and the conditions of supply are part of it.

Conditions of supply

1. Prices are firm for the term of this agreement, in euros, exclusive of value added tax.

2. A batch is due on the day named in the schedule, at the address the schedule was sent to.

3. Quantities are counted on arrival. A count that differs is settled within five working days.

4. Payment falls thirty days after the batch arrives, by transfer to the account on the invoice.

5. Title to a batch passes on payment. Risk passes on arrival.

6. A batch refused on arrival is collected within ten working days, at the supplier's cost.

7. Either party may end this agreement on ninety days' notice, in writing.

8. Batches already scheduled at the end of the notice are supplied and paid for as scheduled.

9. Neither party is answerable for a delay caused by an event outside its reasonable control.

10. This agreement is governed by French law, and the courts of Aix-en-Provence hear disputes.

11. A change to a scheduled batch takes effect only when both parties agree it in writing.

12. The supplier keeps a certificate of conformity for each batch three years after it arrives.

13. The customer's marks may go on cartons and cases for the term, and to no other purpose.

14. Neither party may hand this agreement to anyone else without the other's written consent.

15. Notices are given in writing, to the addresses printed on the first page of this pack.

16. This pack, its schedule and these conditions are the whole of what the parties agreed.
